Kinship Chronicles:
Navigating the Tapestry of Relatives
in 2014:

I always cherished the hugs and kisses I received from my relatives in Chennai when we met. However, traveling has become quite uncomfortable for me due to various factors such as tiredness, headaches, changes in water and climate.

It can be risky to travel during noon due to the intense weather conditions. Going to my paternal aunt's hometown is an option, but visiting my parents' hometown makes me feel unwell. Whenever I meet my relatives, they often comment on how beautiful I look and say things like, "This is how much Achu has grown up, looking so lovely." I have heard similar remarks, especially after the passing of my grandfather.
